Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Myxomycetes of Great Britain For half a century the Myxomycetes have been classified on the basis of external characters alone, or such only as could be discerned by the aid of a pocket lens. In one or two instances an additional genus has been constituted in which some prominence was given to characters determined by the aid of the microscope, as for instance in the genus Badhamia proposed by Berkeley in 1851, but the general feature of the classification was one of external characteristics. The advance of Microscopy left behind such an incomplete system for many years, and at length Professor de Bary turned his attention to the subject but made no definite propositions for a rectification of the classification, until in 1873 his pupil at Strasburg, Dr. Joseph Rostafinski, published in an inaugural address the outlines of a system of classification, based on new principles. In 1875, the more elaborate, and detailed Monografia Sluzowce expanded and illustrated his views in a complete and almost exhaustive manner. This work being, unfortunately, printed in the Polish language, and most difficult to obtain through the ordinary channels of trade, it appeared advisable to present to English readers as much of it as referred to British species in a more familiar language, and hence the present work. At first Rostafinski recognized in the Mycetozoa, as he termed them, two primary divisions, in one of which the spores were developed externally, on the surface of certain definite spore-bearers, and in the other they were developed internally, covered at first by a protective membrane or sporangium.
